Status For all of my friends and family This is it guys. Time for me to have faith. Time to trust in God. Time for me to turn it all over for God. Time for me turn over my evidence. All of it. Stuff you haven't seen yet. Videos I've been too afraid to share . God spoke to me in a dream. He said to have faith and do the right thing. So this is my feeble attempt at doing the right thing at the real risk of losing everything I hold dear in the world, family, friends and faith in my higher power. My freedom. Apparently, God believes I have tons of evidence. I didn't see it at first, so I went back and studied what I had captured frame by frame and to my astonishment I did find that I had indeed tagged many of the bad actors who drove thousands of good people with the best intentions for a peaceful way in like sheep for the slaughter. I was one of the first behind enemy lines on the hill and I made a few videos. I witnessed many more not on camera. Acts that drove me out, for I had bore witness and that was all God intended for me to do. Maybe you saw one of the videos before fear caused me to delete it. There are others yet to be shared. I was there. I came to pay witness. And witness I did. For me and my family, This is it. Time for me to put my faith where my mouth is,, AGAIN for the second time in less than a week. Fear has kept me from finishing my bere witness story. Because the shyt definitely got deep on the 6th of January 2021 and I was there. I bore witness and have carried the burden for countless others who wanted to be beside me, but God had not called them in the way he had me. I answered the call. When God calls,, you answer the damn phone! And I did. I was called. That's the only way to explain it. One can never really explain what that feels like with mere words. As I sit here on my phone pecking out this statement with one finger I feel as though God has been leading me to share my experience. God loves us All, black white brown and all others the same. We are one, human. Division is a tool of the devil, not of God. Who has been dividing the sides? Ya know that history,, she's a bytch. She don't gaf what your political moniker is, but she's there to remind you of where you've been and what you've done. Good or bad history never picks a side. She just spills the beans for all to see. Anyone know the number for the FBI? I've always been a foul mouthed spiritual rough on the edges guy. I describe it as no nonsense. I believe you carry God in your heart not in the building's erected in his honor or in the way one chooses to express themselves verbally. I haven't been in a church for many years except for funerals. I've always
